

Mechanical Sciences indexed in Scopus

Scopus has completed their evaluation of our journal and announced that they will include Mechanical Sciences (MS) in their database. This is exciting news and represents the tremendous work of the editorial board and, more importantly, the trust of the scientific community to submit their top quality articles to MS.

Please note that it may take several weeks or even months until Scopus has processed all XML metadata following the data transfer from Copernicus Publications.

From then on, MS papers will not only be freely accessible but also easy to find!

Once again thank you for your commitment.
